SCHMELING WINS TITLE GO

DREDGER AT WORK ON SLOUGH PROJECT

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Tomorrow is flag day.

* * * *

Every patriotic citizen of Richmond should do his bit to help celebrate the day in a fitting occasion.

* * * *

Merchants along Macdonald avenue should get out their flags and display them throughout the day.

* * * *

And citizens, how about flags on your homes?

* * * *

Tomorrow is the birthday of Old Glory—let's all observe it.

* * * *

Speaking of Flag Day reminds us that the Fourth of July will soon be on hand.

* * * *

Several stores along San Pablo avenue over the Albany line must anticipate a big sale of fire works this year.

* * * *

Already they have laid in a big stock of gunpowder wrapped in red paper and are displaying their signs.

* * * *

Fireworks are going to be missed in Richmond. But it is all for the best.

* * * *

Of course the younger generation of Richmond can shoot its cap pistols.

* * * *

What would Fourth of July be without toy pistols and caps?

* * * *

Think of the fun of playing 'cops'n robbers", of sneaking up behind the house, rounding the corner very cautiously and sliding the ready cap pistol forward.

* * * *

There's a brief aim, the trigger is pulled and 'bang."

* * * *

And cries of "You're dead! I just killed you."

* * * *

And the usual arguments follow as to whethe ror not he is "kilt" or just "wounded."

* * * *

Which is settled to the satisfaction of neither the "cop" nor the "robber."

FIGHT ENDS WITH FOUL IN 4TH

NEW YORK, June 12.—UP—The heavyweight contest for the championship of the world between Max Schmeling of Germany and Jack Sharkey of Boston, ended in a foul tonight with the German lying helpless on the ring floor at the end of the fourth round.

While 75,000 spectators clamored in disappointment, Referee Jimmy Crowley awarded the decision that means the championship to Schmeling, after two minutes and 54 seconds of fighting in the fourth round Sharkey who had been winning all the way, ripped a terrific left hook to the body with only six seconds of the fourth round left to go.

The German lad whose gameness cannot be in doubt went down clutching his groin and was carried to his corner after the bell ended the round.

Max Now Champion

Max Schmeling, the darling of the fistic fates, thus became heavyweight champion of the world, unless the New York state officials decide to reverse their previous decision to thus recognize the winner.

It was the most disappointing ending to what promised to be a spectacular contest. The first in which Gene Tunney's discarded title was at stake in two years.

Only one judge, Harold Barnes, saw the blow land low. Chairman F. Mathison, the other judge and Referee Crowley were not in position to see where the swishing left hook landed.

Sharkey Ahead

Sharkey, who had won the first three rounds, staggered Schmeling and hurt him badly in the third. He accepted the decision with unusual good grace. His face streaked with tears, but he wiped them away and nodded his head in acceptance of the inevitable.

Towards the end of the fourth round, in which Schmeling had

TWO MISSING YEGGS FOUND

FOLSOM PRISON, June 12.—A "hunch" on the part of Warden Court Smith, today resulted in the finding of San Francisco's famous "yacht bandits" Floyd Samsel and Ethan A. McNabb, who had been at large in Folsom prison since last Friday.

The pair was found, weak and hungry cowering in a hole under the floor of the blacksmith shop in the lower yard of the prison at 4:30 this afternoon. They were immediately locked up and a careful watch set on them as Warden Smith questioned them.

The place where the men were hiding is under the blower room and is in a tall building at the south end of the lower yard by the quarry.

Warden Smith, acting on his hunch that the blower room had not been gone over to his liking went down there himself and as a result the bandits were discovered.

The two men had evaded the search of a hundred guards, armed with machine guns, rifles and revolvers, since last Friday at lockup time.

Powerful searchlights had been played on the prison walls all night, and the surrounding country-side had been watched closely.

Every nook and corner of the prison had been carefully combed and flooded with tear gas, but the bandits' hideout escaped observation until late this afternoon.

PANTAGES FRAMED, AVIATOR CHARGES IN STATEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12. —(U.P.)—Startling charges that Eunice Pringle 17-year old dancer, "framed" Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire theater magnate of Los Angeles, were contained in an affidavit sent with State Attorney General U. S. Webb, according to Bernard Nugent, San Francisco attorney.

The affidavit was by Eugene Mozier, aviator, who told of a chance meeting with the girl on a Los Angeles street and declared she tried to induce him to take her to a room and dishevel her dress about an hour before she was to go to Pantages office for an interview about her dancing act.

Bernard Nugent said he had mailed it toWebb. The attorney general late today said it had not been received as yet.

Scores Plan

The aviator asserted he declined to participate in the plan and said that after Pantages was accused of attacking the girl he told District Attorney Buron Fitts of the meeting with Miss Pringle and was told "to do nothing about it and to keep away from Pantages' lawyer."

Pantages was convicted of the

BUDGET FOR C. C. BEING PREPARED

At the present time every official of the county is commencing to prepare his budget for the ensuing fiscal year. Following the filing of the budgets, the board of supervisors will be giving consideration to appropriations and tax rates for the coming year.

In speaking of county budgets, J. B. McFarland, secretary of the Contra Costa division of the California Taxpayers' association, declared today that it is the budget which forms the guide for the expenditures of government.

"The budget tells where we are, and where we are going so that we may know what to do, and how to do it," said McFarland. "The size of the budget determines the amount that shall be spent, and therefore decides the tax burden. Not only is it the responsibility of the county officials, but the taxpayer as well, to study, inquire into and investigate the proposed expenditures of the county," continued McFarland.

"At this particular time we are in a period which demands the conservation of our resources. Therefore, in preparing the county budget this year, it would appear that all concerned should give real thought to make only expenditures which are necessary to carry on the functions of county government. We must all admit that conditions at the present time are such that a great deal of planning should be given toward not adding in any way this year to the burdens of the taxpayer," said McFarland.

ILENE HAFNER AGAIN MISSING FROM LOCAL HOME HUNTED

For the second time in less than seven months. Ilene Hafner, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hafner, 524 Barrett avenue,, has disappeared from her home.

Police of four counties have been enlisted in the search for the missing girl.

According to her father, Frank Hafner the young girl left her home between 5:55 and 6:30 on Wednesday night, while Mrs. Hafner was driving to Berkeley to bring him home from work.

Clothes Packed

Haffner declares that in this period, his daughter packed her clothes and belongings, and disappeared, leaving no word as to her destination.

Mrs. Hafner told police that it was possible Ilene may have gone to Sacramento. Mrs. Hafner left for the northern city yesterday in an effort to locate her missing daughter.

The young girl disappeared once before, last November, and was gone for more than a week. At this time it was believed she had been kidnaped and extensive searches were made for her.

Since her last escapade, the girl has been a ward of the Contra Costa county Juvenile court, released in the custody of her parents.

Realtors Will Join C. C. Board

Indications that the Richmond Realtor board will again become a member of the Contra Costa board of Realtors were seen at a meeting of the local board last night.

At the session it was announced that a meeting will be called in the near future and at that time the board will discuss the proposed membership.

Two years ago the local board withdrawn from the county board when it decided that the aims of the county board could not be applied to the local board. Since that time however the local realtors feel that they could accomplish more if they were members of the county board.

It is expected that at the special meeting the locals will vote to join the county board again.

NEW PHASE OF WORK STARTED

A new phase in the work of dredging of the Ellis Slough project was started yesterday by the San Francisco Bridge company, the contractors in charge of the work.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon the dredger San Pedro owned by the bridge company started to remove the mud from the proposed turning basin near Cutting boulevard.

As soon as the mud is removed from the basin, the clay that lies beneath it will be removed by suction dredges and will be used for building of levees.

Mud Recovered

The mud which is being taken from the basin is being dumped into an area near the Washington school.

Actual work on the dredging of the 300 foot wide channel from the harbor to the turning basin is expected to be started within a short time. Levees will have to be finished before this phase of the work is started.

The project, which was started several weeks ago, is expected to be finished within a year.

New Channel

It will provide for a channel 2000 feet long, 30 feet deep and 300 feet wide and a turning basin within 200 yards of Cutting boulevard.

Silt taken from the channel will be used to fill in new available industrial acreages.

The San Francisco Bridge company, directed by Barrett Hines, is doing the work.

LEGION HEAD RECEIVES DEGREE

WACO, Tex., June 12.—The honorary degree of doctor of laws at the hands of Baylor university here where he was graduated with high honors and as president of his class in 1914, as conferred on O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the Americal Legion, on the occasion of his visit to this, his alma mater, when he delivered the commencement address, May 28. Legionnaires and college classmates united in tendering the commander a breakfast. At noon he was honor guest of his alma mater at luncheon.

Bodenhamer's declaration that the country does not need more new laws so much as more respect for, and obedience to the laws already on the statute books, met with the heartiest applause of an audience that occupied every foot of space in the large new auditorium, occupied for the first time this week. Equal assent was given his contention that America is too prone to pass laws for the punishment of crimes of every character and too derelict in remedying the conditions that make the commission of crime possible. His plea to the graduating class that they inform themselves on all public issues as a preparation for casting an intelligent and conscientious ballot, and then do their duty by always voting, was also accorded the applause of the big audience.

In presenting the degree to the Legion chief, President S. B. Brooks, of Baylor university, said in part:

"Mr. Bodenhamer, once Major Bodenhamer and now Commander Bodenhamer, we are always delighted to welcome you back home on a visit to your Alma Mater, but I would not be telling the whole truth did I not confess to you the fact that it never dawned upon my imagination when you enrolled in this institution as a student in the fall of 1912 that it would ever fall to my lot to confer upon you, in the name of Baylor university, an honorary degree. Nor do I mean to indicate that you gave no promise when you were here as a student. I recall quite well that you impressed both your instructors and myself as a young man of ability, and we were particularly pleased that you did not consider it beneath your dignity to do chores to earn the money for the completion of your education, and I recall that you found both the time and inclination to take extra curricular activities, in addition to your studies and manual labor, and that you shouldered the chief responsibility in raising the funds with which your class endowed a permanent scholarship, and that your class honored you with its presidency.

"Then it was with great pleasure that I presented you with your Bachelor's diploma when you had finished the required work, and saw you enter upon your task as teacher and coach in San Marcos Academy. You had been there but a little while until your country called for volunteers to carry its colors in the battle for freedom and democracy in the World war.

"After the war had been concluded and you were discharged you went into business under a difficult situation, but you made good in a business way as you had done elsewhere, and in community service and civic endeavor generally you gave ample expression to those ideal swhich have been fostered by Baylor university from the beginning.

"Nor has your Alma Mater been unaware of your rise in the ranks of the American Legion from commander of your local post to that of commander in chief of the national organization, and your friends here on the campus and throughout the state rejoiced greatly when word came from Louisville last fall to the effect that your election to that high and honorable position had come by acclamation. We are delighted that so many of the Legionnaires are here as our guests of honor today and we seek to honor them and the cause they represent as we honor you in conferring this honorary degree upon you. You will note that we have given your fellow Legionnaires a seat of honor, placing them in front of our faculty and trustees even. We would gladly have seated them on the platform with you had there been room.

"Also in recognition of your achievements for the American Legion as well as your service as a citizen in many useful fields of endeavor, and because of your personal worth ,it becomes my happy privilege, on behalf of your Alma Mater, to confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in the confidence that you will wear this honor worthily, and that this institution likewise honors itself in endeavoring to honor you."

Former Flyweight Praises J. Hood

LONDON.—Jimmy Wiled, Britain's former flyweight champion of the world, sees a striking resemblance between Jack Hood and Jim Driscoll. Wilde names the late Driscoll as the greatest combination of fighter and boxer he ever saw.

Speaking of British boxers Wilde says, "I really believe that Harvey has a good chance of beating Mickey Walker, and that Hood would defeat the American welter champion, if a match is made between them.

"For many years American boxers have carried off the honors because they have concentrated more upon aggressive fighting than clever boxing. I maintain, however, that boxers such as Harvey and Hood would have won.' '

RICHMOND NET PLAYERS LOSE CONTESTS

Upsets featured yesterday's session of the California State tennis tournament at the Berkeley tennis club, and three Richmond players bowed down to the superior playing of other netmen.

The biggest upset of the day was the Phil Carlin, Donald Budge match which was won by the latter with scores of 6-1, 2-6, and 6-0. Carlin had been playing a great brand of tennis and experts received a severe shock when Budge defeated him.

Darrow Sutton, playing against Dick Bloskower, seeded player No. 3, lost his match by scores of 6-3 and 6-2.

Jimmy Hurley, the remaining Richmond player, also lost his match by scores of 6-3 6-1 to Wilmer Trainor.

Hurley and Carlin, teamed together in today's semi-final match will engage Blaskower and Chas. Hunt, in a match in which the local netmen are tabbed to lose.

Their opponents are seeded players No. 2 and have been playing fast and excellent tennis, but the local boys are planning to give them a hard battle.

HERR MAX SCHMELING, who last night won the world's heavyweight championship on a foul in the fourth round.

MAX SCHMELING WINS ON FOUL IN FOURTH ROUND

done better than in the preceding heats, the Bostonian shot a straight right to the jaw and Schmeling teetered back on his heels against the ropes directly above Judge Harold Barnes.

As Max came off the ropes Sharkey had started a swinging left from his knees and the blow caught Schmeling amidships.

Maxie Down

Sharkey drew away and the German sank to the canvas, grimacing with pain. The count proceeded to "six" when the bell ended the round. Joe Jacobs and Max Machon jumped in and carried Schmeling across the ring and propped him up on his stool. It was obvious that Max could not continue, but the referee took no action until after the bell had sounded to start the fifth round.

At the clang of the bell Sharkey sprinted across the ring to finish his man, but Schmeling's seconds formed a cordon around him and did not leave the ring.

Johnny Buckley, Sharkeys' manager, who wormed through the ropes and addled across the ring demanded that the referee count Schmeling out.

Maxie Wins

The knockdown time keeper began the beat of the seconds with his little wooden hammer but Referee Crowley, after consulting with Judge Barnes announced the decision:

"Schmeling wins on a foul."

There was a furious clamor of protests and approvals about evenly divided, from tens of thousands of throats.

Wherever the left hook of Sharkey's did land, and undoubtedly it was low, it brought a most unsatisfactory ending to the fight.

Max Fortunate

It cannot be said that the better man won nor that Schmeling the fortunate youth from the Rhineland has proved himself a worthy successor to the long line of fistic heroes from John L. Sullivan down through Gene Tunney.

However, Max stood up like a man to an early beating from a perfectly trained opponent who outweighed him 197 to 188 pounds and since he obviously was disabled by the punch there can be no protests if he packs up the heavyweight championship and takes it back to Germany with him.

Gene Tunney who lightly laid aside some two years ago, a crown for which Schmeling and Sharkey fought, was in a ringside seat tonight.

Tunney Present

"From where I sat," said Tunney, "it looked like a low blow. I don't care to say any more."

Referee Crowley who had to make the fateful decision whereby the heavyweight championship was won on a foul for the first time, told the United Press that he did not see for certain where the decisive blow landed.

"Sharkey's back covered the blow just as I moved in towards the men," Crowley said. "In that case the only thing to do under the rules of the New York State Athletic Commission was to consult with the judges. Judge Barnes declared it a palable foul. Judge Mathison did not see it.

No Choice

"Under the rules I had no choice but to award the fight to Schmeling."

When he returns to Germany, Schmeling will take the heavyweight championship from this country for the first time in thirty years. Tommy Burns, a Canadian, ran away to Australia with it. But Jack Johnson overtook him and brought it back. Bob Fitzsimmons, a Cornishman by birth, was an American citizen when he won the title.

WILL GIVE QUICK RETURN BATTLE

NEW YORK, June 12.—UP—"I'll give him a return match," said Max Schmeling as he lay quietly on a slab back in his dressing room after the fight, holding the left side of his hip.

"I didn't want to win that way," continued Max, "but I warned him in the second round when he hit me close to the boundary line. I said to him 'watch out, Jack, you better keep 'em up.'"

Crying like a baby, Jack Sharkey was broken hearted. In his dressing room he said: "Its' not any use to tell me not to get excited. Why wouldn't I get excited when they have taken the heavyweight championship right away when I should have won by a knockout?"

INDIANS TAKE A'S DOWN LINE

AMERICAN LEAGUE—

Cleveland's Indians continued their sensational play Thursday, defeating Philadelphia 4 to 0 to take second place in the American league, less than one game behind the first place Athletics.

Clinton Brown held the champions to four singles. Not an athletic batsman hit to the outfield.

Ted Lyons turned in his ninth victory of the season, the Chicago White Sox defeating Washington 10 to 6, and dropping the Senators to third place in the American league race.

The New York Yankees drove Waite Hoyt, their former pitching star, from the mound and defeated Detroit, 14 to 2.

Erratic playing by the Boston Red Sox enabled Walter Stewart to pitch a 6 to 5 win for the St. Louis Browns.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—

The Brooklyn Robins increased their league lead to four and one-half games, defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2, while the second place Chicago Cubs were dropping a 5 to 3 decision to Philadelphia.

Pittsburgh snapped the New York Giant's winning streak, defeating the Giants, 10 to 7.

Cancer Of The Stomach

By Dr. G. A. ESTERBERG

The most common place for cancer of the stomach is in the pylorous. The pylorous is the opening of the stomach where it joins the small intestine.

Welch analyzed 1,300 cases and the distributions were as follows: Pyloric region, 791; the small curve of the stomach, 148; posterior wall of the stomach, 68; the greater part of the stomach, 61.

The medullary type of cancer occurs in soft masses which involve all coats of the stomach, and usually ulcerate easily. This type of cancer looks a good deal like a cauliflower. It is soft, grayish white in color, and contains a great deal of blood.

Another kind is characterized by great hardness, and is very frequently found in and around the pyloric opening of the stomach.

The so-called colloid cancer is peculiar with its widespread invasion of all the coats. It also spreads with greater frequency to the neighboring organs. In this kind of cancer, ulceration is not so frequent, and the digestion is not so greatly interfered with.

Changes of the stomach occur. If the cancer is at the eosophagus it may become greatly dilated. On the other hand, cancer of the pylorous causes the stomach to be greatly dilated. The stomach may become displaced and greatly altered from the weight of the tumor. In that case, the stomach may be found in any place of the abdomen.

The subject for next week will be a continuation of this safe subject.

(Editor's Note: Dr. Esterberg cannot diagnose, but will be glad to answer your questions in a general way in this column. Address Dr. Esterberg, in care of this paper).

I have been having pain in my right side just below the ribs, and have been told that I have gall stones. Will you please tell me what the symptoms are of gall stones?

There may not be any symptoms as long as the gall stones remain in the gall bladder. Gall stones vary in size from a grain of sand to a hen's egg, and in a few cases may be detected by the x-ray. If impacted in the cystic duct, there is no jaundice. When impacted in the common duct, intense jaundice is pronouced. Before impaction of the calcules takes place as it moves from the gall bladder along the ducts, intense, agonizing, colicky pain is produced, which may be felt first in the pit of the stomach extending to the lower part of the right chest, around to the back of the right shoulder.

These are some of the most important symptoms.

POLICE PROBE BOMBING OF HOME

LIVERMORE, June 12.— UP— Explosion of a home-made bomb which partially wrecked a home here narrowly avoiding injuries or death to six persons, was investigated by police today.

The theory was advanced by some authorities that the bomb may have been planted by labor sympathizers in resentment against alleged neglect by the San Francisco water department which laborers consider responsible for the Calaveras tunnel explosion last Sunday.

Fred Camp and W. H. Jones, engineers on the project, were living at the house which was bombed.

Six Escape

The owner of the house, Marco Bonetti, his wife and daughter, and a guest, were home at the time of the explosion last night, and were thrown from their feet by the blast but were uninjured.

The front of the house was partially demolished.

The bomb was a "makeshift" affair, according to deputy sheriffs who investigated, and was made from dynamite and slugs stuffed into a can.

Only the inexperience of the dynamiters in placing the bomb prevented loss of life from the explosion, it was said.

Charges Made

A theory, that a rival suitor for the hand of Bonetti's daughter Edith, may have intended the bomb for Camp, was denied when Camp denied that any understanding existed between him and the girl at whose home he was living.

While the San Francisco board of supervisors investigated the Calaveras disaster, charges were made by miners that they had complained as long ago as March 4, that safety conditions on the project were not up to the requisite standard. Their charges, they said, were listed and mailed to the Industrial Accident Commission and other agencies including the office of City Engineer O'Shaughnessy of San Francisco although the latter did not acknowledge their receipt.

Tells How Fat Men Can Lose Half a Pound a day

Here's a simple way to get rid of that corporation and quickly feel in both body and mind the joy of living.

It's a safe way, too—for every day you continue this easy method of losing unwanted and unneeded flesh, you'll gain in energy, vigor and endurance.

Nine times in ten obesity means inactivity — It means that your blood is starving for the six vital salts your internal organs need to keep you youthful, active, ambitious and keen in mind.

When you take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts every morning in a glass of hot or cold water you get these six vital salts which modern foods and cooking do not supply.

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys, and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work, you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation—you can play as hard as you work.

And after two weeks your excess flesh starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.

As one, once corpulent man remarked:—"I feel so energetic that I want to get up with the lark and I'm just as lively as a cricket."

Kruschen Salts is not a purgative or a cathartic, but a real system conditioner and for those who are the victims of constipation or toxemia its daily use soon means blissful regularity.

Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at LaMoine Drug company, or any druggist in the world.

BAXTER LAUDED IN LATEST MOVIETONE

Warner Baxter has accomplished the seemingly impossible. He has surpassed the marvellous performmance he gave in "In Old Arizona" with another and even finer impersonation of a gay and insouciant bandit in "The Arizona Kid" a great outdoor romance in Movietone, which delighted large audiences when it opened at the Fox-California theater yesterday.

Here is the genuine spirit of the Old West, that elusive thing which so few Western productions manage to transfer to the screen. Perhaps the fact that all its scenes, including the interiors, were made right on the actual scene of the story—a village in southwestern Utah—has something to do with the note of unquestioned realism that pervades "The Arizona Kid." Anyway, it is there, and together with the gorgeous scenic backgrounds and the remarkable work of the cast, makes the picture one of the best and most entertaining all talking films of the year.

As a badly-wanted outlaw "The Arizona Kid" is being searched for by many, including the sheriff at Rockville, Utah, who does not suspect that Chico Cabrillo, a well-liked resident of the town, is really the Kid himself. Chico's favorite among the dance-hall girls is the fiery Lorita, whose naturally jealous nature is inflamed when her lover offers the shelter of his home to Virginia and Nick Hoyt. The treacherous Nick learns Chico's true identity and betrays him.

How Chico escapes by the skin of his teeth with the one girl who remained faithful to him, forms the stirring climax of this unusually well handled production.

Mona Maris, who plays the leading feminine ro'e, reveals herself as a dramatic actress of tremendous ability. Carol Lombard, Mrs. Jiminez, Theodor Von Eltz, Arthur Stone, Hank Mann and other well-known players give noteworthy performances in their roles and Alfred Santell's direction and clever use of the gorgeous scenic backgrounds of Zion national park call for special mention, as does Ralph Block's absorbing and colorful story.

For a real treat, don't miss "The Arizona Kid."

Also on the program is Clarke and McCullough in "All Steamed Up."

MONA MARVIS is co-starred with Warner Baxter in the "ARIZONA KID" now at the Fox-California theater.

BILLIE DOVE ASKS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—UP—Billie Dove, motion picture beauty, late today filed suit for divorce against Irving V. Willat, film director, on the grounds of cruelty.

Miss Dove, who filed the complaint under her legal name of Lillian Bonny Willat, declared that Willat often flew into fits of rage and struck her with his fists.

The director, after these alleged occasions, would repent and promise to be good if she would forgive him, Miss Dove declared. The repentence was short lived, however, and Willat would return to his old practices, the complaint said.

The complaint said that no community property existed and that the Willats have no children. They were married October, 28, 1923 and separated last September 15.

Detroit Jail Held Worst Death Trap

DETROIT.—The Ohio State penitentiary fire has resulted in the discovery that the Detroit House of Correction, in which several hundred prisoners are lodged, is a sagging aging shell of bulging walls, filled with narrow winding passages, rickety catwalks and wooden tunnels, according to investigators.

"Compared with the Detroit House of Correction, the Ohio prison was fireproof," ironically remarked Capt. Edward H. Denniston, its superintendent. "It is the worst death-trap among prisons in the United States."

The prison was built in 1861.

Melody Man To Be Shown At California

William Collier, Jr., who plays one of the featured roles in "The Melody Man," the Columbia all-talking musical drama which opens tomorrow at the Fox-California theater, comes of an illustrious family and followed in his parents' footsteps when he chose an histrionic career.

His father, William Collier, Sr., is a distinguished actor and writer and his motner was famous on the legitimate stage under the name of Paula Marr. Although young Collier was prepared at the St. de la Salle School for Princeton, he decided to forego a college education and go back to the stage on which he had made a debut under his father's tutelage at the age of six. Coming to California on a vacation trip with his father he was given an opportunity by Thomas Ince to play the juvenile role in "The Bugle Call." Since then he has continued in pictures and has attained notable success. Among his recent productions are "The Lion and the Mouse," "Tide of the Empire" and "The Donovan Affair."

Also on the program is a talking comedy "Bulls and Bears."

DRY LAW MOVE FOUGHT BY WOMEN

DENVER, Colo., June 12.—UP—The rallying cry for a finish fight against moves for prohibition enforcement was sounded today by Mrs. John C. Urquhart, Los Angeles, before the convention of women's clubs.

A duty rests upon every clubwoman in the country to convince the public of the value of prohibition, said Mrs. Urquhart, chairman of the federation's division of law enforcement.

"We consider every member of the general Federation of Women's clubs as speakers in the cause, ready to give a truthful and convincing answer to all objectors," she declared.

Unrest Seen

"Selfish interests are creating unrest by flooding the country with propaganda to prove the failure of the law falsely claiming the unrest and lawlessness of the day to be the result of prohibition.

"Women have been the greatest sufferers through the curse of the liquor traffic, and women will never see America recede from the position of leadership in this fight."

A program for aiding the advancement of world peace was approved by the convention on the recommendation of Mrs. Ben Hooper, Oshkosh, Wis., chairman of the department of international relations.

Program Told

It called for continued efforts in behalf of entrance of the United states into the world court, and support of the government in efforts to secure international reduction of expenditures for war.

Federation officers elected for the next bi-ennium were:

President, Mrrs. John F. Sippel, Baltimore, re-elected.

First vice-president Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Brockton, Mass., re-elected.

Second vice-president, Mrs. Eugene B. Lawson, Tulsa, Okla., re-elected.

Secretary, Mrs. Henry C. Taylor Bloomfield, Iowa, re-elected.

Treasurer, Mrs. Edward Hammett, Sheboygan, Wis.

Board of Directors, Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, Kentucky, and Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight, Los Angeles.

assault and sentenced to a term of one to 50 years in prison. He is now at liberty on bail awaiting the outcome of an appeal.

The affidavit declared that he collided with a girl on a downtown street, and that he invited her to have something to eat in a restaurant.

Plan Told

During the meal the girl, who said her name was Eunice Pringle, declined to accompany him to a Long Beach apartment, but suggested he rent a hotel room, take her there "to scratch and mutilate her on divers parts of her body" before she kept her appointment with Pantages.

"According to the affidavit, Mozier said he was not interested and the girl wrote her name in his address book, telling him to call her if he changed his mind.

Relating Mozier's asserted visit to Fitts' office, the affidavit said:

Saw Fitts

"Deponent thought no more of the incident until the arrest of Pantages for attacking Eunice Pringle. He then went to the district attorney' of Los Angeles county and to him personally, told the above story.

"The district attorney then told deponent that he would have to keep his mouth shut and keep away from the attorneys representing Pantages under threat of dire consequences. A few days after this, deponent was arrested on a charge of burglary and was indicted by the grand jury of Los Angeles county, and held in the county jail for a period of five days under bail of $5,000.

"Later, deponent had an interview with the district attorney of Los Angeles county, who stated to deponent that he would drop the charges against him if he would leave Los Angeles. This, deponent did, and received from the district attorney the sum of $15 which was to be used as railroad fare from Los Angeles to San Francisco. The district attorney then arranged with the mayor of Los Angeles for a letter from the mayor to whom it concerned for the purpose of granting deponent any favors that authorities of other municipalities might grant him."

FITTS DENIES TRUTH OF STORY

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—UP—District Attorney Buron Fitts late today declared the statement of Eugene Mozier that Alexander Pantages was 'framed' by Eunice Pringle 17, was "absolutely and unequivocally false."

Mozier, in an affidavit given State Attorney General U. S. Webb in San Francisco, declared he met Miss Pringle in Los Angeles a week or so before she allegedly was attacked by the multi-millionaire and that the dancer said, among other things, that she "planned to take Pantages for a piece of money."

The affidavit said the girl attempted to persuade Mozier to tear her clothing and bruise her before she went to Pantages' Los Angeles office to talk about her dancing act.

Keeps Quiet

Mozier, according to the affidavit, declined to participate in the plan, and after Pantages was charged with assault, told District Attorney Buron Fitts about the conversation with Miss Pringle. Fitts the affidavit said, warned Mozier to keep quiet and to stay away from Pantages' attorneys.

Fitts said that Mozier will be called before the Los Angeles county grand jury to tell his story.

Statement Made

The district attorney's statement follows.

"The statement of one Eugene Mozier was absolutely and equivocally false. I have never heard of the man, never spoke to him in my life, and if he has anything that might bear on the guilt or innocence of Mr. Pantages, I will be very glad to put the entire matter before the grand jury of Los Angles county, and am, therefore, issuing a grand jury subpoena for Mozier's appearance before that body. However, this appears to be just another attempt to mix up the affairs of the district attorney's office of Los Angeles county in connection with the present gubernatorial contest."

Mayor John C. Porter this afternoon said that although he had issued a letter of introduction to Eugene Mozier it was not at the request of District Attorney Fitts.

Letter Written

The mayor said the man had represented himself as a world war veteran making a trip around the world, and the letter was merely a courtesy to a veteran.

The letter, as shown by the mayor's records, read:

"To whom it may concern:

"This letter will introduce Eugene Mozier, war veteran, who is making a trip around the world."

It was dated January 29, 1930, and was signed by Mayor Porter.

EUNICE PRINGLE SCORES STORY

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—UP—Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer, tonight branded an asserted affidavit of Eugene Mozier that she told him of a plan to 'frame' Alexander Pantages, as "foolish and ridiculous."

"I never heard of the man," she said. "This story is foolish, and ridiculous, and so funny in spots that it almost makes one laugh."

Legge Again Appointed On Farm Board

WASHINGTON, June 12.—UP—President Hoover's strong support of the farm board's policies and activities were made evident today by his reappointment of Chairman Alexander Legge and C. C. Teague as chairman and member of the board of respectively.

The board has been strongly attacked by the U. S. chamber of commerce and by the grain commission men as a result of the board's purchase of millions of bushels of wheat to stop a price drop.

Legge and Teague have been serving temporary one year terms. Legge, an executive of the International Harvester company before he took this government position, and his colleague both were named to full six-year terms in the nominations sent to the Senate today.

Confirmation with little if any opposition is expected.

Hoover also sent the Senate the nomination of W. Cameron Forbes, Boston, to be ambassador to Japan to succeed the late Ambassador McVeagh. Forbes is a former Philippine governor-general and recently chairman of the Hoover committee which investigated conditions in Haiti.

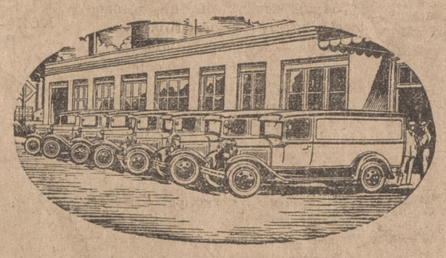
SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford



A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter & Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks.

The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Consider the Cat!

SINCE few men miss a bet when there's an apparent chance to rub in something about the mental inferiority of the female—and, goodness knows, these chances get scarcer and scarcer!—women lately have had their hands full in repelling charges based (and base) on a report to the American Society of Mammalogists that male cats are more intelligent than females. To make things worse, it was a woman, Miss A. S. Firkins of Columbia University, who sponsored this discovery, after giving mental tests for several months to seventy-eight cats, both toms and tabbies.

Miss Firkins registered regret when she informed an audience of men that the four leading contestants in her feline intelligence test were all males, but scientific adherence to truth compelled her seeming treachery to her own sex. We have no doubt that Miss Firkins was telling the truth, or, rather, the facts, as she saw them. What we do think, however, is that she jumped to the wrong conclusion from the facts.

In two shakes of a kitten's tail we shall do our best to show that, by Miss Firkins's own report, the superior FEMALE intelligence even of CATS is conclusively demonstrated. This column is not going to let men crow any longer about the alleged inferiority of the female feline intellect.

FIRST, though, we must submit a bright and chivalrous suggestion contributed to the cat intelligence controversy by a man, Lewis H. Russell. In Miss Firkins's experiment, the contestant cats, male and female, had to learn how to step on certain plates in order to get at FOOD in an enclosure. The capitalized italics are those of Mr. Russell, wise in the ways of his sex and completely candid about them! In short, given the prospect of FOOD, any male will beat any female to it! But what this male demonstrates, as Mr. Russell happily reminds us, is not superior intelligence—merely superior gluttony and greed. Need we say more?

We shall, however. For the brain testing of cats really proves what every woman knows—that the intelligence of the female lies ever in the art which conceals art!

Naturally, in a feline sex competition, the four winners were males, as Miss Firkins so ruefully reports. But how comes she not to divine the true inwardness of the situation? The female cats allowed the males to grab the limelight of the laboratory; while their admiring mothers, sisters, fiancées sat back and purred and gave their classic imitation of the cats that swallowed the canary, only to smile, "No, ma'am, we ain't seen your birdie!"

Those female cats realized, as so many humans of their sex have realized, that it isn't tactful for a female to beat a male. Why assume that tomcats are more broad-minded than men? And how many men, even in this modern age, really appreciate—to say nothing of loving—a female who's a better brain than they are, Gunga Din?

INTELLIGENCE—the feminine felines flunked in the test were probably palpitating with it! In one glance of green eyes that see so much, in dark as in light, the tabbies doubtless penetrated to the heart of the little mystery staged by Miss Firkins of Columbia. And then—those females looked at one another. Maybe they didn't even do that—so powerful and deep-rooted is the ancient female knowledge of How to Put It Over on the male and his world.

Anyhow, as one tabby, as one woman, they acted. They hung back. They stumbled. They played stupid. They let the toms win the honors of the occasion, bask in the reflected glory of Columbia University and the American Society of Mammalogists as the brainiest of their species.

It has been done before. It will be done again, so many times, for it Always Works. Go to the cat, thou wallflower, consider her ways and get wise!

P. S. And while human males continue to catterwaul over the "male cat winner in brain test" headline, our advice to human females is that they comment, cattily, one mild, innocent, ironically interrogative monosyllable—"Pr-a-a-a-ow?"

OFFICE GIRL

Morning long
Striking keys,
The mind mechanically repeating
The written matter before the eyes.
There is an interlude
Of one swiftly-flowing hour.
Faces are retouched with paint.
Deft hands pat the hair in place,
Under saucy hats.
Eyes meet,
A breathless greeting is uttered—
Much talk and laughter.
But, all too soon,
The quicksilver hour
Has flown away.
And once more
Hands fly over keys
That click metallic.

Woman's Place Is at the Steering Wheel

To reduce that appalling 1929 list of 31,000 automobile accidents has been the chief subject of study for the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety meeting in Washington. Both as a harried pedestrian and as a logical observer—not as the professional champion of our sex—we suggest that an increase in the number of women drivers will mean a decrease in the number of accidents. Or at least, let more men drivers emulate the efficient carefulness of the motoring female.

She is a common figure in the streets of the suburb where, for six months of the year, we walk a daily mile or more to and from trains, and never do we have to leap out of her path. Lillian, Marion, Violet—not one of the inveterate chauffeuses of our acquaintance has ever received a ticket, and Magistrate Jean Norris tells us that few women appear in Traffic Court, except to pay their husbands' fines! Promote women from back seat to front seat driving—and promote safety first!

THE OLD ARE WISE

Last night I met an old man. The white lace
Of his beard fell on his chest in folds.
His eyes were like pearl buttons sunk in fur.
He leaned upon a cane and dragged his step.
Oh, he was old! He told me: "Eighty-seven!" . . .
And since I've often heard the old are wise,
I boldly asked, "What would you do
"If youth were yours again?"
The old man patted his great beard and said:
"I'd spend experience to re-live ripely—
"Re-live with zest and knowledge my young days!"

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

"DAD, is it true? Am I made of dust?"

"Who told you were made of dust?"

"Dick Travers. He said that we were all made of dust."

"Well, son, in one sense of the word, I suppose it is true."

"What sense of the word?"

"Why, that our bodies are the same chemical elements that are in the dust."

"Do we eat dust?"

"Eat dust? Don't be absurd."

"Well, if we don't eat dust how do the chemical elements of the dust get in our bodies?"

"Oh, go to bed."

A Traveling Note

WHEN you have carried two grips, has it surprised you that you could do this with no more fatigue than when carrying one? It is a fact you can carry a suitcase and grip with greater ease than you can carry one alone. The explanation is that the weight is balanced. It is equally divided between the muscles on both sides of the body and there is no overstrain to just one set of muscles as is the case when you carry only one bag. Try it on your vacation trip.

CA DISH CA DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

On these warm days it is a temptation for the housewife to simplify her menus as much as possible and rely on the delicatessen and bakery for help. There are many delicious desserts which can be concocted from a little fresh fruit and the cakes so reasonably offered by bakeries and chain stores. Ice cream sandwiches of boxed wafers and store ice cream is another emergency dessert of which no one need be ashamed.

KAREN HOLLIS.

There are some of us who really enjoy cooking, however, and, while we grudgingly may admit that store desserts are just as good, we go right on scorning the time and labor savers and do our own baking.

Just now, when fresh pineapples of excellent quality are flooding the market, pineapple shortcake is an excellent choice for dessert. Let those who will, buy their shortcake at a store, but for the rest of us, this recipe is an excellent one. Whether the cake is to be purchased or baked at home, the pineapple itself should be fresh and should be pared, diced, mixed with sugar and a little lemon juice and stored in the ice box for two or three hours before serving.

PINEAPPLE SHORTCAKE

Third cup sugar
Two cups flour
Four teaspoons baking powder
Half teaspoon salt
Four tablespoons shortening
One egg
Half cup milk
Two tablespoons butter

Sift the flour once, measure, and sift again with sugar, salt and baking powder. Cut in shortening with knives. Beat the egg and mix it with milk, and add a little at a time to the dry mixture. Cut off in small sections and pat into rounds about three inches across and three-quarter-inch in thickness. Bake twenty minutes on greased baking dish in moderate oven. Split, spread with butter, and serve hot, heaped with the chilled pineapple.

Renovating the Awnings

IF LAST year's awnings are badly faded, why not paint them and make them look like new?

Before painting, however, make sure the awning material is still strong and sufficently heavy to hold the paint. Of course, they should be painted while hanging to facilitate the drying process.

The awnings with side pieces cannot be satisfactorily painted, but with the popularity of gay, varied colors it may be possible to paint the awning a plain color that will harmonize with the sides in the striped fabric or a contrasting plain material. However, many of the newer awnings are made without sides, and these can be made very attractive with paint.

Use whatever color paint you desire for the outside and paint inside of awning in white or any light tone. The paint acts as a protection to the fabric, and each year a fresh coat of paint may be applied to maintain the appearance of new awnings.

Think It Over

By Alfalfa Smith

I SUPPOSE those who have a reputation for being good-natured wonder occasionally whether it pays to remain in that happy state.

I was talking the other day to the motorman on one of our large trolley systems and he said:

"It pays to keep good-natured for it will keep you out of a lot of trouble."

Perhaps it does.

Modernizing the Home -:- Small Porches May Have Large Possibilities

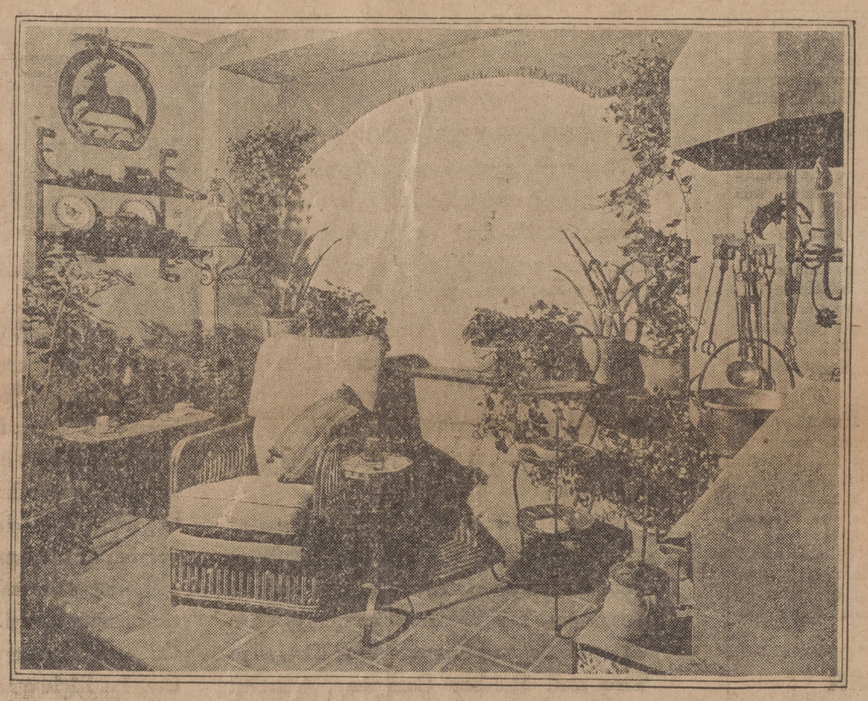
By Alma Zaiss



HERE FURNITURE IS IN PROPER SCALE AND DETAILS ARE SO INTRIGUING THAT ONE FORGETS THE LACK OF SPACE

Dear Miss Zaiss:

This isn't much of a problem, but we would appreciate it so much if you could give any suggestions for a small porch (6x9 ft.) leading off the living room of our apartment. It is not a sun porch and is so small I can't seem to think of things to make it very attractive because two or maybe three chairs and a table is about all the space will take. The apartment overlooks the East River and is real artistic, and we would like to make the balcony or little porch as interesting as possible over the summer, especially as our vacation and most of our week-ends will be spent at home this year.

Please, Miss Zaiss, do not suggest anything very costly, but I guess you couldn't go very far anyhow, with such a little space to work with. The walls of the apartment are cream stucco and big red tiles are used for the porch floor. Awnings sort of dusty brick red with a blue binding. We have just moved here in May and as yet have nothing for the porch. Would you like reed or wicker furniture? I am very fond of the iron summer furniture but think it isn't so comfortable, even with cushions, so wouldn't want it. Also, what kind of plants would you use and would you have a flower box on the coping or pots? Many thanks for your help.

(Mrs.) J. F.

When Interesting Detail Atones for Lack of Space

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

LET all who are tucked away in inside apartments for the summer read Mrs. F.'s letter and be envious! A porch overlooking the river, with its bridge and its barges, its flickering lights and foghorns and the peculiar romance that somehow hovers over the least thing that happens on that far from scenic stream. Yes, no matter how small it is, this porch must be artistic.

In the space that is but six by nine feet there is, indeed, little room for furniture, but the rough stucco walls, tile floor and casement doors provide a background so interesting that we could almost be happy there with not a chair to sit in.

However, we see room for two very comfortable arm chairs, with a tile-top table and book shelf for the wall adjacent to one, a small desk, folding card table or radio near the second chair, and a footstool for the man of the house. For extra seats on the small porch it would be ideal to have a set of three large and smartly upholstered cushions so arranged that when one is unfolded it forms a comfortable chairback; unfold two and you have a delightfully easy chaise longue. When placed on top of each other the three cushions of this modern chair occupy a space no longer than the usual seat dimensions; they are extremely good looking, and so versatile that a half dozen different positions and uses may be found for them.

Although but a few pieces have been suggested, this small collection of furniture will give ample comfort and convenience, and also allow for entertainment without crowding.

The rough walls and tile floor described by Mrs. F. strongly suggest wrought iron furniture. But since her desire is for perfect comfort, we shall compromise, using two stick reed chairs with the three cushion chaise chair for lounging, and bringing in wrought iron and rough pottery accessories to furnish the decorative note for the porch.

The little porch illustrated holds many interesting hints for Mrs. F.'s scheme. Against the left wall she may place a shallow wrought iron table with a tile top quite similar to the one shown in the picture, wherein the wall decoration above adds another charming bit of atmosphere to this small space where so much depends upon an interesting background. The tile top smoking stand of wrought iron, the lamp, pottery and old kettle of hammered brass are responsible for as much more color and interest, and serve to show Mrs. F. how easily her own little porch can be turned into a fascinating nook.

With the red tile floor and brick-red awning bound with blue it would be good to use stick reed chairs in natural finish and have the cushions covered with waterproofed chintz or fabrikoid in a good shade of blue, or use one of the new waterproofed rayon fabrics woven in a smart modern pattern in which blue is predominant. Loose cushions could be of striped fabric; the modern three-cushion chair can be had in various shades of leather or fabrikoid bound with contrasting color. These weather proof fabrics are suggested for the reason that the porch is not inclosed; the dampness from the river will be quite penetrating at times, and rain will often find its way into the inclosure. It will be infinitely comforting to know that the appointments of the porch cannot be harmed and therefore need not be hauled into the house at the first sign of approaching storms.

For the sake of refreshment there should be a tea set of gay Spanish or Italian pottery; a beverage set of sturdy Spanish bubble-glass in a color that harmonizes with the scheme; smoking accessories in keeping. For this porch we should prefer the plants to be in colorful pots instead of one long flower box. On the low stone coping cacti of many kinds and long spiky ribbon-leaf plants would silhouette most effectively against the sky, and ivy in wrought iron baskets hung against the rough stucco walls would trail in a very decorative fashion. An old Spanish lantern for the wall space at either side of the casement doors might also be appropriate.

These furnishings outlined need not be at all expensive, but they will be colorful; suggest the art of old craftsmen and foreign lands, and so fit quite naturally into their unique setting above the river.

As we study the accompanying picture, it must help us to see the charm of relatively insignificant things in small quarters, and to appreciate perhaps more clearly than we have before that there are times when very little furniture goes a long way . . . provided it is displayed against an interesting background and is surrounded by well-chosen accessories.

Care of Your Baby

By Emilie Hoffman

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

"I CANNOT nurse my baby," you have heard this statement made many times. In some cases it is quite true but the majority of mothers are able to nurse their babies if they have proper care.

There is no food quite as good for the new-born baby as mother's milk and statistics show that ten bottle-fed babies die to one nursed by its mother. So thinking mothers nurse their babies at least through those first three important months which mean so much in laying a good foundation for the teething period. If there is not sufficient milk at least let the baby have what there is and give the bottle directly after the nursing.

If the baby is thriving on mother's milk it should be continued up to about nine months. Weaning should be done gradually and always under a physician's directions. It is not advisable to wean a baby during the warm weather.

The quality as well as the quantity of mother's milk can be regulated to a large extent by the mother through her own food and well being. Her diet should consist of light digestible foods. Heavy foods are liable to cause indigestion in both mother and child, but it is necessary for a nursing mother to have well-balanced meals. She may find it necessary to restrict her diet. Close observation will show her what foods, if any, cause her baby distress and, of course, these should be avoided.

Particularly good foods for the nursing mother are well-cooked cereals, especially corn meal mush with sugar and cream, and cream soups. Malted milk or chocolate at bedtime and, perhaps, between meals, will enrich and increase the flow of milk.

Fresh air and exercise, preferably walking, but not to the point of fatigue, are necessary. Physicians assert that the physical and mental health of the mother have even a greater effect than diet upon the milk, and the nursing mother must avoid fatigue, loss of sleep, worry, anxiety, over activity, excitement and she must control her emotions. Grief, fright, passion, &c., all react upon her baby. In short, if the mother keeps herself well she is giving her baby its best chance to be well.

Nursing times must be regular by the clock—every three or four hours, according to the needs of the child, during the day and once during the night up to the third or fourth month. Each nursing should last twenty minutes. Give cooled boiled water, without anything in it, midway between nursings and give it in a bottle.

Do not wean your baby or give any other food without consulting a physician and do not attempt either one during the summer, unless found absolutely necessary by the physician.

Nail Enamels

Twelve shades of costume nail enamel is the latest fad! There are pastel tints to color the nails suitably when one wears the light formal frocks—and deeper shades for daytime and sports costumes. It is better taste to go light on nail enamels than to have the nails dyed too vividly.

RESULTS OF THE SENATE INQUIRY

A COMPLETE review of the Senate's Prohibition investigation, with the seven months' testimony boiled down:

FIRST MONTH. The Senators and witnesses met in the Green Label Committee Room. Senator Scrabble (Southern dry) attended in a two-gallon hat and a one-pint flask. The first witness staggered to the stand. It was Eli M. Googin of Kansas. He was asked what Prohibition had done for him. Mr. Googin responded his stomach had grown a full beard from drinking bay rum. Congressman Bingle (dry) called him a liar and charged he had swallowed a toupee.

Prof. Oompah spoke in behalf of the wets. He said pure alcohol was good when applied to a weak back. Ten Senators complained of weak stomachs. The Bible mentions liquor frequently, the professor said. He had got some good receipts out of the Book of Ginesis.

* * *

Mr. Wickins, an inventor, explained his scheme to make Prohibition effective. He would put wholesale liquor men behind the bars. Then they would be retailers. Senator Glaub (dry) declared Congressmen vote as they think. That is why so many Congressmen are recorded as not voting.

The first important witness was Philander Whimp. He said he was a member of the W. C. T. U. by marriage.

MR. WHIMP—Gentlemen, I am a liberal. I believe people who chew tobacco should wear brown vests.

CHAIRMAN—Mr. Whimp, what is a nullificationist?

WHIMP—A nullificationist is a man who cannot say it on account of hiccoughs.

CHAIRMAN—And what is Jamaica ginger?

WHIMP—Jamaica ginger is 90 per cent. alcohol and 10 per cent. Jamaica ginger.

CHAIRMAN—What, in your opinion, has been the effect of brandy?

WHIMP—It has increased fainting 400 per cent.

A barrel of whiskey was introduced as evidence. The Senators went into an executive session so there would be no leak.

The committee then voted to adjourn to the following week when they would discuss how people got painter's colic from drinking shellac.

SECOND MONTH—The wets scored their first big point. They showed that Henry Ford was making 6,000 cocktail shakers a day. Titus A. Drumm was introduced as the wets' star witness. He wore an alcoholic suit of black and white which had been cut by a fashionable bootlegger. Mr. Drumm also wore a thick fur coat on his tongue. He was subjected to a severe grilling by dry Senators.

CHAIRMAN—Mr. Drumm, where were you in the winter of 1775?

DRUMM—I was with Washington at Valley Forge.

CHAIRMAN—You mean George Washington?

DRUMM—I believe his first name was George. I always called him Bill.

CHAIRMAN—You had a high regard for George Washington?

DRUMM—Very high. He was one man in a million.

CHAIRMAN—Did George Washington have pyorrhea?

DRUMM—No.

CHAIRMAN—Then he was one man in five. That is all, Mr. Drumm.

At the request of the Anti-Saloon League it was read into the records that Eli Whitney was indicted in 1826 for making cotton gin. Senator Sponge (wet) charged that Prohibition agents were making [illegible] on the side. It was voted to summon the Davey tree surgeons and find out what they knew about grafting.

At this point the hearing was adjourned. The committee [illegible] question the Weather Bureau [illegible] it has become [illegible]

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

SHOW of SHOWS

"Show of Shows," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone picture was the source for the material on which these stories are based.

FORTIFIED by the best ten-cent egg sandwich Hollywood afforded, Leo Hanlon set out to give the West Coast a thorough licking. As he considered the situation, he decided that all the signs were propitious. His complete insolvency made it possible—indeed, inevitable—for him to begin at the bottom. And study of the lives of successful Americans had assured him that poverty was a desirable condition.

Warming to his campaign, he reflected that his chances were somewhat brighter than Ben Franklin's: Franklin arrived in Philadelphia with three buns. Also, hadn't he been encouraged by the smile—or was it a giggle?—of the future Mrs. Franklin?

In the midst of these reflections Leo was all but pitched from the curb by what he later discovered to be a joyful greeting from his old pal, Harry Cronk. Harry was fond of greeting old friends somewhat in the manner of a fullback going off tackle. Enthusiastic, true enough, but a bit wearing.

"Leo!" he greeted the unsettled Hanlon, "how come you're in Hollywood?"

"You tell me," returned Leo, shaking hands with Cronk. "Glad to see you, Harry."

"Come along," invited Cronk; "I'm on my way to lunch. You bound anywhere?"

"No," said Leo; "glad to join you. In fact, I'm overjoyed."

Harry was instantly alert. "Broke?" he asked.

"Stony," admitted Leo.

"It's a Hollywood habit."

Over their luncheon they discussed measures calculated to relieve Leo's financial sufferings. Cronk, a press agent for Exalted Films, Inc., agreed to sound out a number of executives in the industry as to the possibilities of embossing Leo's name on somebody's payroll. He was especially hopeful of persuading some casting director to place his friend in a small part in a picture.

"But I'm no actor," protested Hanlon.

"Who says you aren't?" demanded Cronk. "If you're down on the payroll as an actor, who is going to prove you're anything else?"

"But I'd be a flop," argued Leo. "You remember that time in college, in our class show, when I went all to pieces and—"

"That's an idea!" Cronk interrupted excitedly. "Look! You're set. That college show gives me a start. You remember Larry Ceballos, don't you?"

"Ceballos?" Leo was puzzled.

"Sure, you know," Cronk reminded him, "that dance director who showed us how to hoof for that college caper."

"Oh, I recall him."

"Well, get this: he's out here staging dances for Warner Bros. Say, Leo, how did you click with him?"

"Oh, I don't know. We were all pretty awful, naturally. Still, I managed to get on and off the stage without falling. I can still negotiate a pretty good buck routine, though I don't suppose it's anything that'd make Jack Donahue throw away his shoes."

He had scarcely finished speaking before Cronk was halfway across the restaurant. He vanished into a telephone booth. A few minutes later he emerged bearing a grin which re-enforced Leo's belief that starting at the bottom wasn't so bad.

Jack Haskell directing Alice Day, Georges Carpentier and Patsy Ruth Miller.

"All set," he informed the eager Leo.

"I'm hired, you mean?" Leo's tone was eager.

"Who am I," demanded Cronk, "a miracle worker? Course you're not hired. But I've talked Larry into looking you over. See him at ten tomorrow. And don't forget it; that's some break, kid."

"I know, Harry," admitted Leo, "and I'm grateful."

On the sidewalk again, Harry prepared to take leave of his friend to keep an appointment. Eliciting from Leo the tidings that the latter had no place to sleep, and no baggage, he gave him a key to his bungalow, mentioning an address on Gower street, just off Hollywood Boulevard.

"Move in until your first ghost walks," he invited. He thrust a twenty dollar note into Leo's hand. "Something for cigarettes and pate de fois gras for the time being," he explained.

"I'll be all right, Harry," Leo said hastily, making a gallant if not wholly sincere effort to return the money.

"Behave!" commanded Cronk. "Say, the way you vanquished those victuals just now tipped me off that your content of hot meat isn't all it should be. We make loans in Hollywood now, too. It's getting to be quite a popular custom."

Leo pocketed the note, expressing his thanks.

"See you at the bungalow tonight," continued Cronk. "I'll take you out playing bridge. We play for one-twenty-seventh of a cent a point. At that sum you can't lose; nobody can figure fractions that involved. So long."

CAROL NAMES HELENE AS QUEEN

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 12—UP—King Carol made it possible today for his divorced wife, Princess Helene, to call herself Queen Helene. His action was seen as a token of reconciliation between the royal pair, whose match was broken in 1928, after Carol had gone to Paris with Mme. Magda Lupescu.

This new development was announced by the Official Gazette after a day in which Carol's brother, Prince Nicholas and the Princess' mother, former Queen Elizabeth of Greece, made progress as peacemakers between the king and his former wife. It was explained that parliament's annulment of the law of January 4, 1926, barring Carol from the right of succession, made him king when his father, Ferdinand, died in 1927. Since Helene did not obtain her divorce until 1928 she automatically became Queen upon Ferdinand's death.

Publication of this news followed swiftly on the return to Bucharest of the Dowager Queen Marie. Leaving the Orient Express, after a quick trip from Munich, the politically powerful Marie was met by a reception group including Carol, Nicholas, Crown Prince Michael and ex-Queen Elizabeth of Greece. Of the royal personages in Bucharest, only Helene was absent from this meeting. A special company of troops under Carol's command, was drawn up in Marie's honor.
